Work Was Better than Prayer.

The story the other day about the pious little boy who tried to walk on the water in the bath-tub recalls another of an equally pious little girl. She was 8 years old and lived in the country; she had started one day rather late for school with another little girl about her own age. On their way they caught a glimpse of a clock dial through an open door; it lacked five minutes of 9.

"O, dear!" exclaimed the pious little girl, "it's five minutes to 9, and we'll be late to school."

"I'm afraid we will."

"Jennie," said the pious little girl, impressively, "I'll tell you what we must do; we'll kneel right down here and pray that we won't be late."

"H'm!" said the other, "I guess that we'd better skin right along and pray as we go!"

They "skun," and got there.—Boston Transcript.

JUDGE THURMAN!

His Letter of Acceptance Compliments President Cleveland and Administers a Fatal Blow to Monopoly Taxes.

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 15.—Following is Judge Thurman's letter of acceptance:

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 12, 1888.

"Hon. Patrick A. Collins, and others, committee:

"GENTLEMEN:—In obedience to custom, I send you this formal acceptance of my nomination for the office of vice president of the United States, made by the national convention of the democratic party at St. Louis. When you did me the honor to call upon me at Columbus and officially notify me of my nomination, I expressod to you my sense of obligation to the convention, and stated that, although I had not sought the nomination, I did not feel at liberty, under the circumstances, to decline it. I thought then, as I think now, that I ought to do whatever I could properly do to promote the re-election of President Cleveland. His administration has been marked by such integrity, good sense, manly courage, and exalted patriotism that a just appreciation of these high qualities seems to call for his re-election. I am also strongly impressed with the belief that his re-election would powerfully tend to strengthen that feeling of fraternity among the American people that is so essential to their welfare, peace and happiness, and to the perpetuity of the union and of our free institutions.

"I approve the platform of the St. Louis convention, and I can not too strongly express my dissent from the heretical teachings of the monopolists, that the welfare of a people can be promoted by a system of exorbitant taxation far in excess of the wants of the government. The idea that a people can be enriched by heavy and unnecessary taxation; that a man's condition can be improved by taxing him on all he wears, or his wife and children wear, on all his tools and implements of industry, is an obvious absurdity. To fill the vaults of the treasury with an idle surplus for which the government has no legitimate use, and to thereby deprive the people of currency needed for their business and daily wants, and to create a powerful and dangerous stimulus to extravagance and corruption in the expenditures of the government, seems to me to be a policy at variance with every sound principle of government and political economy. The necessity of reducing taxation to prevent such an accumulation of surplus revenue and the consequent depletion of the circulating medium is so apparent that no party dares to deny it; but when we come to consider the modes by which the reduction may be made, we find a wide antagonism between our party and the monopolistic leaders of our political opponents. We seek to reduce taxes upon the necessities of life; our opponents seek to increase them. We say, give to the masses of the people cheap and good clothing, cheap blankets, cheap tools and cheap lumber. The republicans, by their platform and their leaders in the senate, by their proposed bill, say, increase the taxes on clothing and blankets, and thereby increase the cost; maintain a high duty on the tools of the farmers and mecnanic, and upon the lumber which they use for the construction of their modest dwellings, shops and barns, and thereby prevent their obtaining these necessities at a reasonable price. Can any sensible man doubt as to where he should stand on this controversy? Can any well informed man be deceived by the false pretense that a system so unreasonable and unjust is for the benefit of laboring men? Much is said about competition of American laborers with the pauper labor of Europe, but does not every man who looks around him see and know that an immense majority of laborers in America are not engaged in what are called protected industries? And as to those who are employed in such industries, is it not undeniable that the duties proposed by the democratic measure known as the Mills bill far exceed the difference between American and European wages, and that therefore, if it were admitted that our workingmen can be protected by tariffs against cheaper labor, they would be fully protected and more than protected by that bill? Does not every well informed man know the increase in price of home manufactures produced by a high tariff does not go into the pockets of laboring men, but only tends to swell the profits of others? It seems to me that if the policy of the democratic party is plainly presented, all must understand that we seek to make the cost of living less and at the same time increase the share of the laboring man in the benefits of national prosperity and growth.

"I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

"ALLEN G. THURMAN."

HELD GOOD.

A Supreme Court Decision on the Grand Rapids-Nickel Plate Collision.

Judge Byron K. Elliott, of the supreme court, has filed this decision, affirming the judgment of the superior court, in the case of the New York, Chicago and St. Louis railway vs. Grand Rapids and Indiana railroad company:

"The appellant, desiring to cross the appellee's road, agreed to put signals at the crossings and to maintain a watchman to operate the same. Afterwards a code of signals was agreed upon and each party agreed to obey them. While appellee's train was crossing in obedience to a signal giving it the exclusive right to the crossing one of the appellant's trains ran into it, doing damage to appellee's property. Held: (1) That the appellant is liable for the damages resulting from its violation of the contract. (2) Although the appellee's employe's might have seeu the appellant's train, they were not guilty of negligence in failing to anticipate a disobedience of the signals. (3) It was competent to prove the difference in value between the cars as they were often repaired and as they were before injury. (4) A competent expert may give an opinion as to the distance at which it is safe to stop before going upon a crossing. (5) It was not error to permit the appellee to show that appellant's engineer had been drinking intoxicating liquors."

COL. J. A. GOULDEN.

The Views of a Prominent Democratic Speaker and Pennsylvania Soldier.

Col. J. A. Goulden, of Pittsburg, a prominent member of the democratic state central committee of Pennsylvania, who has been stumping in Indiana for two weeks, registered at the Wayne, Saturday night, and was in the city over Sunday, the guest of his friend Mr. Clark Fairbank.

A representative of THE SENTINEL called upon the gentleman to obtain his views on the political situation.

In reply to queries, Colonel Goulden spoke freely, saying: "I am not a regular campaign speaker, but having business calling me here, I have permitted my democratic friends to draft me into service, believing it to be the solemn duty of every good patriotic citizen to take an active part in public matters, as the political parties are the source from which flows the life current of the government in all its varied branches. Corrupt and indifferent political parties must of necessity make dishonest negligent public officials, to the lasting injury of the people. With this feeling strong within me, I allowed my friends to draft me into service, upon my arrival in Indiana.

I have been to Richmond, Indianapolis, Crawfordsville, Frankfort, Kokomo, Tipton, Peru, Wabash and Lagro.

Everywhere I find the democrats thoroughly united, magnificently organized, all meetings largely attended and the people wild with enthusiam.

If the democrats persevere faithfully until the last vote is polled on the 6th of Novermber, Indiana will cast her fifteen electoral votes for Cleveland and Thurman by a majority of 10,000.

Yes, I came here direct from New York and if the signs of the times, the great enthusiasm of the people, the large and interesting meetings, the grand and efficient organization, the able and skillful management, the zeal and devotion of the workers mean anything, they mean that New York, Connecticut, New Jersey and Indiana will cast their electoral votes for Cleveland and Thurman by good round majorities on the 6th day of November.

The great business interests of the country are satisfied with President Cleveland's clean, conservative and patriotic administration of affairs.

The laboring people and the farmers are getting their eyes opened to the iniquity of the high war tariff that has been robbing them for a quarter of a century, and their votes will surprise even the most sanguine democrat.

With three months more time to educate the people Pennsylvania would give Cleveland and Thurman her twenty-eight electoral votes. Even as it is our republican friends are forced to make a vigorous fight to carry that state by a greatly reduced majority.

Our people, the masses, are getting it into their heads that the tariff only protects the few at the expense of the many and are rapidly growing ripe for revolt against the republican party, who have always legislated for the wealthy (the classed) and against the people.

The prohibition vote in Indiana will cut quite a figure this campaign. Their leaders claim from fifteen to twenty thousand votes. It is safe to put it at 10,000 which is more than double that of 1888.

They are making gains all over the state, and as they expect to be the national party opposing the democracy in 1892, breaking up the solid south, to a certainty if they succeed in burying the republican party next month, they are aggressive and hopeful.

The sectional feeling exhibited by the republicans, makes the south solid again for Cleveland.

Victory is within the grasp of the democracy, but every democrat must constantly bear in mind that eternal vigilrnce is the price of success, and each one must keep his shoulder to the wheel earnestly and zealously from now until the full democratic vote is polled and counted.

The Weather.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—Indiana.—Local rains, warmer.

IT IS SETTLED!

The Chicago Street Car Strike Adjusted, But a Bloody Riot Occurs This Morning.

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—The great street car strike strike, after a duration of nine days, was ended completely last evening on a basis honorable to both sides.

The question of wages was compromised.

An advance was secured, but the scale is materially lower than what had been insisted upon by the strikers up to the very last. They get only about one-third of the increase asked for. On the other hand all the reforms demanded by the men in the system of working are conceded and all the strikers are to be re-employed. The men hired by the company since the strike began will also be retained.

A rather serious conflict occurred this morning about three blocks from the Garfield avenue barns between a mob of strikers and the new men who are running the cars. The first car was run out and proceeded on its way without any event. The next six cars were then run out and had proceeded to Centre street, when a mob rushed from an alley near by and made a savage assault upon the new drivers and conductors.

Stones and missiles were hurled through the air and several of the mob pounded the new men and endeavored to drag them off the car. A hand to hand struggle then ensued. Captain Schack, with twenty-five men, immediately started for the scene. The mob which had evidently vented its spite ran away when the police appeared. Several conductors and drivers were hurt seriously. The trouble arose through the fact that the new men who were retained were concentrated at the Garfield field avenue barns and were the only men running cars from that point.

A SECRETARY SHORT.

He Skips Out With $3,000 of the Company's Money.

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—C. C. Nardid, secretary of the Citizens' Building and Loan association, disappeared last Wednesday and his whereabouts are unknown. The members of the society say between $2,000 and $3,000 are missing. His bonds fully cover the deficiency.

Can't Cross the Border.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. Oct. 15.—The four Chinamen continue to be the wards of the Grand Trunk railway, sleeping on the floor in the general waiting room of the station. They have written and received several letters since their arrival here a week ago. The Grand Trunk authorities have done everything in their power to get them across the frontier to their destination, even communicating with the authorities at Washington. Each time reply has come that they cannot be allowed to enter the country.

Very Important Decision by Prominent State and University Chemists.

Among them Prof. Collier, chemist in chief of the United States department of agriculture, Washington, D. C.; Ordway, of Massachusetts, Barker, of Pennsylvania, Albrecht, of the United States mint, Louisiana, Everhart, of Texas, Hilgard, of California, Heys, of Canada, and others most prominently known in chemical literature, after subjecting brands of baking powders on the American market to a thorough chemical examination, have published their findings, and it is important for the people to know that the report of these hygenic authorities of the nation implicates almost every brand analyzed with some poison or adulteration, with the exception of Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder, which for its purity and healthfulness they recommend for family use.

REV. J. M. FULTON

Tenders His Resignation as Pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church Owing to Ill Health.

Yesterday morning Rev. J. M. Fulton, the pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, before beginning his sermon, which was one of the ablest efforts of that brilliant young divine, made an announcement from the pulpit which was received with regret by the entire congregation present.

The announcement made was the tendering of his resignation as pastor of the church. He stated that he had been led to this step by his continued ill health and the advice of his physicians, who deemed a change of climate necessary in his case.

Rev. Fulton began his duties as pastor of the church about eighteen months ago. He has endeared himself to his congregation and the people of this city by his pleasant social ways, and every member will join with THE SENTINEL in expressing regret at his resignation. He is a minister of force and power, a pleasing and eloquent orator, and one whose position will be hard to fill.

A congregational meeting of the members will be held Wednesday evening to take action upon his resignation. Concerning Mr. Fulton's future movements we are not advised, but the best wishes of all for his speedy restoration to health will accompany him and his estimable wife wherever they go. He has several calls to the pulpits of other cities and we trust his health will be such that he may soon enter the active ministerial work again.

They go ahead of their diamonds to save expenses.

A GREAT EVENT.

The Barbecue and Demonstration at Shelbyville in Honor of Judge Thurman's Visit.

SHELBYVILLE, Ind., Oct. 15.—Ten cars with Cal Brice's private car carrying Judge Thurman and party left Cincinnati on the Big Four, at half past 8 o'clock, this morning, for the big demonstration and barbecue at Shelbyville.

The extra cars on the train were occupied by 200 members of the Duckworth club, 150 of the Thurman club, of Cincinnati, and fifty more from the Thurman club, of Columbus, beside a large number who did not go in delegations.

The first car of the train was literally covered with banners and bandanas, while the enthusiastic democrats were all provided with bandanas. At Greensburg several hundred people were waiting impatiently, calling for Judge Thurman, whose appearance at the rear platform was greeted with cheers.

James B. Townsend introduced the judge as the "next vice president" and Judge Thurman told the crowd, "if you democrats of Indiana do your duty and give us this state, that may turn out to be." The train started with the last word, and the crowd gave the judge a parting cheer.

Shelbyville stirred the air with a tremendous cheer, the crowd being away up in the thousands. The day is gloomy and drizzly. Judge Thurman was driven up town, escorted by the local and visiting clubs, to the home of Mr. John Beggs, where here viewed the parade.

The visiting clubs were from all this part of the state and formed a procession over a mile long. After the procession, the crowd called for a speech and Judge Thurman standing on Mr. Begg's front porch, said:

"Of course you don't expect a speech at this time, as I must husband my voice all I can to spread myself after awhile."

At the fair grounds the barbecue is being held and there the speeches take place during the afternoon.

The Judge Starts on His Indiana Tour.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 15—Judge Thurman left Columbus yesterday afternoon in the private car of Chairman Brice, of the national democratic committee, which was attached to the 2:15 express on the Columbus and Cincinnati road. Accompaning him were his son, Allen W. Thurman, Dr. Fred W. Schwartz, Hon. C. W. Baker, of this city, Charles Q. Davis, and four representatives of the press. There were no ladies in the party. Although it was generally understood that the judge would leave for his brief Indiana tour yesterday, the time of departure was kept secret in order to avoid any possible demonstration. This object was accomplished so far as Columbus was concerned, but the fact that he was en route was wired along the line, for at every station there were groups of people waiting to give Mr. Thurman a cheer as the train went by. At Washington Courthouse, where a brief stop was made, about five hundred people had assembled, and the cheers were interspersed with loud calls for a speech. At first the judge was unwilling to show himself, but the clamor was so persistent that finally he appeared upon the rear platform and said: "Gentlemen, if I were a preacher I would preach you a sermon. As I am not one, I cannot speak to you on a Sunday."

At Madisonville there was another large crowd, but it had to content itself with a glimpse of the judge through the car windows. Cincinnati was reached at 6 o'clock. About 500 people had gathered in the depot and 1,000 more outside. The judge was met by a committee representing the various clubs, under whose escort he was taken to the Grand hotel, the crowd following, cheering heartily. This morning, escorted by a number of democratic clubs of this city and Columbus, Judge Thurman left for Shelbyville, Ind., to participate in the democratic barbecue and rally at that place.

Blaine at New Albany.

NEW ALBANY, Ind., Oct. 15.—The morning train brought many visitors to the city to attend the Blaine meeting this afternoon. The weather is inclement and disagreeable. A drizzling rain began falling at day-break. Mr. Blaine and his son are the guests of Congressman Culbertson.

To Assist Nature

In restoring diseased or wasted tissue is all that any medicine can do. In pulmonary affections, such as Colds, Bronchitis, and Consumption, the mucous membrane first becomes inflamed, then accumulations form in the air-cells of the lungs, followed by tubercles, and, finally, destruction of the tissue. It is plain, therefore, that, until the hacking cough is relieved, the bronchial tubes can have no opportunity to heal. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

the inflamed membrane, arrests the wasting process, and leaves no injurious results. This is why it is more highly esteemed than any other pulmonary specific.

L. D. Bixby, of Bartonsville, Vt., writes: "Four years ago I took a severe cold, which was followed by a terrible cough. I was very sick, and confined to my bed about four months. My physician finally said I was in consumption, and that he could not help me. One of my neighbors advised me to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. I did so, and before I had taken half a bottle was able to go out. By the time I had finished the bottle I was well, and have remained so ever since."

Alonzo P. Daggett, of Smyrna Mills, Me., writes: "Six years ago, I was a traveling salesman, and at that time was suffering with

EVANSVILLE will open books at once for the subscription of $100,000 stock for her tri-state fair to open next year. By the way, what about the Fort Wayne association?

TWENTY THOUSAND democrats joined in a parade in New York city Saturday. Secretary Fairchild and Speaker Carlisle spoke from the sub-treasury steps, the former devoting his time to the surplus in the treasury and the latter to the support of the Mills bills.

IN a divorce suit now pending at New York city we read of the groom's entertaining the bride on their wedding night with the story of his love for another girl, and on offer of $10,000 if she would grant an immediate divorce. Fiction has never yet dared to reach this height.

GOVERNOR HILL, of New York, some time ago, when the issue was raised as to whether the tariff, or something else, raises and maintains wages, applied, through the Bureau of Labor Statistics, to the manufacturers and the workmen of the state. Of 1,311 employes who answered the question, "To what do you attribute the increase of wages in the past five years?" 864, or over 60 per cent., said "to the organization of Labor," while only six claimed that the tariff was the cause. Of 558 Labor Unions that answered 500 attributed the increase wholly to organization.

THE advance sheets of Sir Morell MacKenzie's defense of his treatment of the late Emperor Frederick, whom he terms the "noble," are published and can not fail to excite a bitter international controversy, for Sir Morell's defense is more virulent than anything uttered by the German critics against him. He reviews the late emperor's illness and courage, the historic consultations and adventures with Bismarck and closes by asserting that Professor Gerhardt caused the cancerous complication in the emperor's throat and that Professor Bergmann was immediately responsible for his death.

THE price of flour has gone up one dollar, two dollars, three dollars a barrel, since the recent wheat deal at Chicago and bread-stuffs are accordingly higher. A loaf of bread is worth from one and a half to two cents more than it was six weeks ago. That eats into the wages of the poor man and to add to his misfortunes the winter is coming on, and shortly we shall have the mercury down to zero. The three things the poor most need are slowly climbing out of reach. The coal combine will look after the matter of fuel, and the laborer can have the pleasure of freezing to death. The republicans will take charge of the woolen products and see that the price of warm clothes is kept at a ruinous figure. The wife and the little ones must shiver in calico, or wrap themseles in the republican assurance that trusts are private affairs. Down with monopolies.

In the combination, proportion, and preparation of its ingredients, Hood's Sarsaparilla accomplishes cures where other preparations entirely fail. Peculiar in its good at home, which is a "tower of strength abroad," peculiar in the phenomenal sales it has attained. Hood's sarsaparilla is the most successful medicine for purifying the blood, giving strength, and creating an appetite.

REFORM IN INDIANA.

Mr. John H. Bass Declares for Reduced Taxation, and Says the Workingmen are Ready For It.

[By telegraph to the New York Herald.]

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Oct. 13, 1888.—The "free trade" scare has about played itself out here. Mechanics and workingmen generally seemed to have weighed it in the balance and found it wanting in all respects.

"I do not think it worth passing consideration," said Mr. John H. Bass, as we sat talking over the situation. Mr. Bass is the largest manufacturer of car wheels in the world. His shops here and in St. Louis and Chicago certainly turn out more material for railroads, more boilers and machinery than any other single establishment west of Philadelphia.

"Yet," said Mr. Wm. Fleming, a man with large business interests here, and president of the First National bank, "if any man in Indiana ought to be affected by the free trade cry it is Mr. Bass. If, as the Harrison-Blaine organs say, the success of the Mills bill—or rather let us say now, the success of the democratic ticket—means a tremendous reduction in wages, then Mr. Bass, with his 2,500 men, ought to save a quarter of a million dollars in wages alone during the next couple of years. He is in the iron manufacturing business, and might be regarded as a beneficiary under the high tariff graciously accorded us by the Arthur commission. He is not a bit grateful, however. Indeed, he thinks now, as he thought then, that the whole scheme of 1883 was a disgraceful scramble on the part of partisan manufacturers to see who could most extensively and most surely rob the consumers at large—the American public."

"Yes," said Mr. Bass, "there was intense desire on the part of iron masters to secure a large lump of government guarantee, even in directions where it had been demonstrated that paternal assistance was unnecessary. I don't how the manufacture of casting or car wheels can be affected by a tariff. We usually sell the finished article at a certain percentage above the cost of the material and the labor in it, and whether the material is high or low I don't see think it affects materially that class of work."

"Is there much European or Canadian competition in your business?" I asked

"Not a great deal. Cast iron car wheels are not used much outside the United States. We send some to South America and a few go to Spain. European railroads, as a rule, are equipped with wrought iron and steel tired wheels. They would probably make cast iron wheels there if they had the excellent material which we have here and could produce them as cheaply. In all this, however, they are at a decided disadvantage. They haven't the material from which to create the article."

THE STEEL CLIQUE'S SWINDLE.

I discovered from his remarks on the subject of iron mining that Mr. Bass was interested in ore beds in Alabama, and his ideas agree with many others that we can afford to feel independent to a great extent in the matter of foreign ores.

"We can mine ore in Alabama," he said, "at a cost of seventy-five cents to $1 a ton put on the wagons at the time. The cost per ton at the furnace depends, of course, upon distance and facilities of transportation. To send it north and west costs from $4 to $5 a ton. To send it east it costs less than $4 at marketable points. This iron brings from $26 to $28 a ton, with the tariff price of $6.72 a ton added on. At the prices I name, the ton of iron is composed of two tons of our high grade pig."

"Under these circumstances would you favor a further reduction of duty than that named in the Mills bill?"

"Well," replied Mr. Bass, "while I think it is ent down pretty low, yet I don't believe if a further reduction were made it would stop any of our furnaces. I don't approve of its absolute removal. I have, however, always felt that an excessively high tariff produced a disturbance in business frequently that was decidedly injurious to manufacturers. The tariff on all things ought to be reduced to a point that would only just compensate for any differences existing in the cost of production."

"You mean also covering the differences in the cost of labor between our own and European makes?"

"Exactly. It is a fact, though not generally understood, that the iron we manufacture here is very much superior to iron shipped to us from Great Britain and brings more in open market. I name Great Britain especially because most of our foreign made iron comes from there."

WE ARE NO LONGER INFANTS.

"You evidently are not a believer in government bounty to 'infant industries?'" I suggested.

"Infant fiddlesticks," said Mr. Bass, sharply. "We have developed into healthy manhood in nearly all manufactures. It would be better for us all if this twaddle about 'infants' in business ceased. The tariff on steel rails has been for years very much higher than was necessary to our producers of steel. Look back at the condition of things in 1879-82. At that time there was a duty of $28 per ton. In the course of those years overproduction and keen competition carried rails down so low that they actually sold at the rate named in the tariff schedule—$28 a ton. Now, in the name of common sense, what is the use of protecting an article to an amount equal to its cost of production here? If our manufacturers had permitted foreigners to provide some of the demand of 1880, the subsequent over production could not have occurred, because then the large number of new plants would not have had an existence and the manufacturers would still have controlled this market after the first demand, owing to a revival of railroad building, had been met. In that period the tariff had been a most unhealthy stimulus. It promised and in some instances, gave enormous profits, but it also caused enormous losses, and resulted in the formation of cliques and combinations whose interests can never be those of the public at large."

"Why, then, wouldn't the abolition of duty on all raw materials be beneficial?"

"I think," Mr. Bass said after a pause, "the tariff ought so to be modified as to permit us to manufacture at the lowest possible cost, which would give us a foreign market, prevent the violent fluctuations that now disturb manufactures and increase the demand for articles, so that in turn there would be greater demand for labor. This is the great point to be considered. We want our home labor to have the maximum of benefit every time."

HIGHER WAGES FOR WORKMEN.

"The workingman would be benefited, then, in your opinion?"

"That's my view of it as a large employer of labor, and I am tolerably certain, too, that our workmen hold similar views. I may be mistaken, but I don't believe that here, in Fort Wayne, you will find ten per cent. of wage earners who are afraid to try the modifications of the tariff as proposed in the Mills bill, and this is a large manufacturing city. They understand as well as you and I that the tendency of an excessive tariff is simply to increase the profits of the manufacturer, who always gets his labor on a free trade basis. There is no use in attempting to deny this. No amount of talk can change this irrefutable fact. In my judgment, under a reduced tariff we should make more goods for foreign consumption, and this increased demand would necessitate more labor, and hence, labor would be better paid. The general tendency of a policy which cheapened raw materials and placed our people on an equal footing with foreigners would be to enlarge our markets instead of keeping a Chinese wall around us. And, as I said before, an increased demand for labor means an advance in wages. Ergo, tariff reduction, by the simplest process of reasoning, means money for our work people, and that again means general prosperity.

"I am glad to see the eastern press discussing this thing from a business stand point. It is an economic question and politics ought to be purely secondary. The country produces more than it can consume. Other countries would be glad of our surplus, as we should be glad of their surplus of wools and other material, but we cannot sell to them because we cannot buy from them in return. This is the present situation and it ought to and must be changed."

A SPECIFIC FOR DRUNKENNESS.

A Receipe Which Is Claimed to Cure the Passion for Alcholics.

[Newark Advertiser.]

A specific against drunkenness has often been sought, but as yet there has been found no remedy except that of moral determination. Although the reform accomplished in this manner is encouraging, there is a wide field for the use of some physical method for the reclamation of besotted individuals who cannot be reached by moral suasion. Dr. Portugslaw, a well-known physician and writer, declares that the desire for drink is a disease and must be treated by means of therapeutics. He claims that as quinine is a specific against fever, so are subcutaneous injections of strychnine the absolute means of curing the passion for intoxicating liquors. It appears that so far back as 1873 this method of treating was employed, but it attracted little attention. In 1884 the celebrated French physician, Dujardin-Boimetz, was a most zealous advocate of this method of treatment. The preparation and application of the injection is quite simple. One grain of strychnine is dissolved in 200 drops of water, and the patient receives an injection of five drops daily for a week or ten days. The effects of the injections are surprising; after two or three of them the drunkard has an appetite and is able to sleep. If, after the expiration of several months, the desire for strong drink returns, the result of indulgence is so distressing, palpitation of the heart, headache, and other equally disturbing effects, that it becomes impossible for the inebriate to touch another drop. It is recommended to make the injections during the drunken sleep, when the patient awakens in the full possession of his senses and will ask for a second or third application. It would be an admirable arrangement if the police surgeons would test this "cure" upon the intoxicated persons brought into the various stations. If this means of treating the deadly sin of intemperance be as successful as its advocates claim, the family physician will be a powerful factor in the regeneration of society. It has been suggested by the Russian press that stations be established in every department of Russia for the ration of the army of drunkards.

Proverbs That Need Correction.

There ought to be a useful future for the boy who set the Chicago River on fire. The country is full of proverbs as much in need of correction as the musty saw which affirms the impossibility of kindling a stream of water. To "work like a Turk," was in old times, before civilized people knew much about Turkey, the equivalent of doing double duty. Everybody knows nowadays that the Turks are a lazy, idle, and flea-bitten race, so hostile even to the soap-and-water industry that if the prophet's beard were washed and combed they would actually refuse to swear by it! The "roast beef of old England" has long been proverbially rare, or, as the Englishmen say, "underdone" in American estimation. The fact is, however, that the roast beef of old England is "bloody" well done, and your visiting Briton positively turns up his rosy nose at the raw beef served him by zealous caterers in New York who want to remind him of "'ome." Let the Chicago iconoclast gird up his loins!—New York World

A New Idea.

It is reported from England that perfectly pure air can be produced from the combustion of coal. "The arrangement for effecting this result is extremely simple. It consists of a brick chamber about five feet wide and two feet high built upon the ground. At one end is a feed chamber and a fuel chamber, and at the other a powerful exhaust and blast fan. Placed intermediately between the chamber and the fan are baffle plates, a standing bridge with perforations at the back and a hanging bridge with perforations at the front. There are also several carefully proportioned inlets to supply the exact quantity of air requisite for perfect combustion. This exact apportionment of air constitutes one of the main points of success, and it is the one most difficult to determine. Once known, however, this law of proportion between air and fire is, of course, easily maintained."

A Milwaukee Romance.

It was in a West Side parlor. All Sunday afternoon he had remained close by her side, and as the gloaming began to gloam, and the sun sank from sight over the glue factory in Wauwatosa, her mamma appeared upon the scene and asked that he remain to tea. Did he remain? Well some! Many slices of cold tongue slid down the interior of his gracefully curved neck, and ere many minutes he was filled with a sample of everything that the table afforded, and his hunger had disappeared, while the food of which he had partaken had stimulated and given him strength to again take up his position in the parlor for an all night sitting. It waxed darker and yet darker, while the flickering street lamps began to flick and ever and anon the tingle of a passing street car would make sweet music. As the evening wore on apace, the happy young things snuck by couples to the parlor, and again took up their position on the sofa, leaving the indulgent mamma to dream away her evening alone. In the far-off church tower a bell slowly tolls the hour of ten, but still they sit side by side, occasionally talking in low whispers, which sound like the sighing of an evening breeze through the closely woven branches of a hedge fence, but more often sitting in blissful silence and dreaming of the future. Little do they know, children as they are, what the near future has in store for them, and how could they? When we are happiest and the world seems brightest, misfortune is liable to be lurking in our vicinity, and only waiting for that happiness to reach the very pinnacle, even to slopping over, before making itself known in all its hideousness.

Again and again the bell slowly tolls. Hour after hour passes; yet they linger. On the street all is hushed. The good mother has long since retired to her room, done up her bang, put her false teeth to soak in a tumbler, said her prayers and gone to sleep. In the distance the uncertain step of a belated pedestrian echoes faintly upon the night air. A cricket 'neath the parlor window chirps a few short notes, and quiet again prevails. It is that hush that always comes just before the birth of a new day. Still they linger. Hush! My God, what was that?—W-h-r-r, rattle bang! He starts. Strong man, and firmly sot as he is, he springs to his feet and glances about in a wild, uncertain kind of way.

"Wh-wh-what was that fearful racket, Gertrude?" he gasped, as he tried to find his way to the sofa in the dark, and sat down on the key-board of the piano.

"S—h, dearest, don't be alarmed. It was only the cook's alarm clock." But here another noise smote upon their ears. A door was heard to open on the next floor, and presently a still, small voice came echoing down like the wheeze of a sick horse. It was mamma minus her false teeth:

"Gertrude Bjones!"

"Y-e-s, mamma, dear."

"Well, fur lan' sakes, hain't you in bed yit?"

"Not yet, mamma."

"Well, you march! Yere it is four o'clock an' you not in bed yit. Why it's scandelous. There's the cook goin' down now to commence her Monday's washin', an' them clothes thet you've got on hes got ter go inter the wash. You jest show that young man politely out, and git ter bed in a hurry." A door slammed and again all was quiet. Once more they squz in a passionate embrace, their lips met like the coupling of a brace of flat cars, a struggle ensued, she had one of her front teeth nearly pushed through her lip, and the next moment he was gone. Thus they were obliged to part. Two young hearts were rent in twain and they would not meet again for hours, perhaps for days, but such is life—on the West Side.—Peck's Sun.

Get rid of that tired feeling as quick as possible. Take Hood's Sarsaparilla which gives strength, a good appetite and health.

Shaved by a Bullet.

Gen. Stuart, as usual, greatly exposed his own person on horseback, by riding out of the wood into the open field, and I felt it my duty to say to him that, in my opinion, he was not in his proper place, as in a few minutes the whole fire of the enemy would be concentrated upon him. But he was in a very bad humor, and answered curtly, that if this place seemed likely to become too hot for me, I was at liberty to leave it; whereupon I made response that since my duty attached me to his side, no place could be too hot for me were he chose to go.

Nevertheless I changed my position, and cautiously brought a large tree, in front of which I had been standing, between myself and the enemy. In an instant the firing began, and three bullets struck the tree at just the height to show that, had I remained where I was, they would certainly have gone through my body. Looking at Stuart I saw him pass his hand quickly across his face, and even at that serious moment I could not help laughing heartily when I discovered that one of the numberless bullets that had been whistling around him had cut off half of his beloved mustache as neatly as it could have been done by the hand of an experienced barber.—Youth's Companion.

Curious Incident of War.

Some interesting information with reference to a very curious incident which occurred during the Franco-German war has just come to hand. In 1870 three French visitors established themselves at a hotel in a well-known German town, where they remained several months. Being then in want of funds and unable to pay their bill, they were compelled to leave a package which they had brought from France in the hands of the landlord in satisfaction of his claim. This upon examination was found to contain a sumptuously-designed state chair. The name Napoleon was embroidered upon the silk covering of the back and seat, and on the occupant pressing his hands upon the finely-carved gilt arms a musical air was played by an instrument concealed within the upholstery. The care of this remarkable piece of furniture seemed the only occupation of the strangers, who are supposed to have been awaiting the advance of the French army and, in the event of its proving victorious, would doubtless have conveyed the chair to Berlin, where, it is presumed, it was to have been used as a throne by the Emperor Napoleon. The chair remains in the possession of the Frenchmen's host.—Letter to London Times.

THE GREAT RALLY.

The Officers of the Day, Committees, Order of Formation, Line of March and Arrangements for Judge Thurman's Reception.

The elements are just a little bit depressing, but they cannot dampen the ardor of the democratic hosts, who propose to give Judge Allen G. Thurman a royal welcome next Wednesday, come rain or sunshine.

This morning Hon. R. C. Bell, Hon. F. P. Randall and Dr. Geo. W. Loag proceeded to Shelbyville and will escort Judge Thurman to this city to-morrow afternoon, so that in the evening he will be present at the presentation of a handsome banner to the Hendricks legion from the Wayne hotel balcony.

If the weather opens bright Wednesday, and it will, no one can estimate the number of strangers who will pour into Fort Wayne, and people cannot make their arrangements too elaborate to entertain the thousands. Everybody should take pride in decorations, especially along the line of march.

There will be an afternoon and evening parade Wednesday, and the pageant will be reviewed by Judge Thurman, the friend of the people, and one of the grandest statesmen of his day.

Besides Judge Thurman, Governor Isaac P. Gray, Senator Daniel W. Voorhees, Senator David Turpie, Hon. Joseph E. McDonald, Hon. Samuel Carey, and other distinguished orators will address the multitude from various places, to be indicated later.

GIGANTIC BUSINESS.

The Jenney Electric Light Company Gets Into a Big Combination.

The facts are not all at hand, but enough is known to credit the assertion that the Fort Wayne Jenney Electric Light company has formed a co-partnership or combination with the Thompson-Houston company, of Boston, and the stock of the Fort Wayne company soars where par can not touch it.

Mr. R. T. McDonald is at the head and front of the new deal, and has made a fortune out of it, besides still retaining the position of general manager.

Mr. J. H. Bass and Mr. H. G. Olds refused $100,000 each for their interest in the Fort Wayne company, so that the value of stock can be realized from these figures. In the new combination the Plymouth plant is lost, and THE SENTINEL has it from good authority that the Fort Wayne works will spread over ten acres of ground next summer.

Whether this movement is one to organize a gigantic electric light trust, the gossips do not say, but it looks that way.

Another feature of the Fort Wayne-Boston combine is that they have taken $50,000 of the bonds of the local or city electric light company, of which Mr. H. C. Graffe is president and improvements are being made in this property accordingly, witness the purchase of water power—the Rudisill mill property.

MR. J. C. BOWSER.

Death of an Old and Highly Esteemed Citizen.

Last night, at his home on East Berry street, occurred the death of Mr. J. C. Bowser, a pioneer citizen, after an illness of three weeks, from pneumonia.

Mr. Bowser was born in Fairfield county, Ohio, eighty-one years ago. He came to Fort Wayne in 1833, with his young wife, and engaged in a general business selling farm implements, wind mills, etc.

He next established with Mr. Storey the foundry and machine, shops now known as the Fort Wayne Iron works, on Superior street. The firm soon changed to J. C. Bowser & Co., and was one of the strongest in the west, Mr. Bowser's wealth at one time being estimated at $200,000.

Outside of this business Mr. Bowser was a railroad contractor, had contracts on the Pittsburg and Wabash roads and built a great portion of the Muncie line. On this work he was defrauded out of some $70,000, and reverses followed until he retired from active business.

Mr. Bowser was widely known and universally liked. He was always agreeable and goes to his reward with the highest praises of all who knew him.

His venerable wife and two daughters, Miss Sally Bowser and Mrs. Willis Pearse survive a kind husband and father. His three sons, Jefferson C., Mat M. and Lafayette M., are dead.

Mr. S. M. Foster's Address To-night.

This evening, at the Academy of of Music, Mr. Samuel M. Foster, one of the best tariff thinkers in the west, will address the citizens of Fort Wayne, at the invitation of the Democratic Rail road club.

LOCAL NEWS.

The Summit City Building and Loan association will meet to-night.

William, the eleven-year-old son of Mr. John Schmidt, of Glasgow avenue, died Saturday, of dropsy, and was buried yesterday.

The fifteen-months-old child of Mr. Charles Reutschler, of 11 Jones street, died to-day of flesh decay, and will be buried Wednesday at 2 p. m.

Mr. Edwin Morrey, agen forty-two years, of 49 East Lewis street, died yesterday of consumption, and will be buried to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. The deceased was a machinist, and has been sick for seven years. He leaves a wife and three children.

Mrs. Stoll, wife of Henry Stoll, of the fire department, met with an accident while driving out on the Catholic cemetery road this morning. A farmer drove his wagon against her buggy, tearing a wheel off, and throwing the lady to the ground. Her injuries are severe.

ECHOES OF THE RAIL.

Monday Morning Comes Wet and Disagreeable With This Budget of News.

The Pittsburg road will run another excursion to Chicago to-morrow.

The Wabash shops turned out a new locomotive last Saturday. It is numbered 138.

William Eberhart, has returned from his wedding trip and resumed his position in the Bass Foundry moulding rooms.

The Democratic Railread club will turn out this evening to hear the speech of Mr. S. M. Foster at the Academy of Music.

The "Fair Play" amusement company came in on the Pittsburg last evening from Alliance, O., and went to Grand Rapids.

The roadmasters in convention at Boston pronounced in favor of rails not less than seventy-two pounds in weight per yard.

Mr. Henry Loewensberger, car inspector on the Pittsburg road, is receiving congratulations over the arrival of a baby boy at his home.

The democratic boys in the shops are wondering how they will manage to get a "day off" Wednesday on account of the big Thurman rally.

Messrs. F. Neiman, H. Theike, M. Ensch aud J. Carroll were among the new men employed this morning at the Pittsburg machine shops.

Messrs. H. Bennigan, L. Miller, M. Ehrman, F. Armack and F. G. Olds took positions as machinists in the Pittsburg shops this morning.

Frank Manier, a carpenter at the Pittsburg car shops, mourns the loss of a ham and other articles which were stolen from his house last evening by burglars.

The lost pocket book found by our reporter Saturday was restored to its owner this morning, who called at the office and gave a description of the property.

The Lake Shore people decline to advance grain rates, until the Pennsylvania lines do so. The second attempt to advance east-bound rate on grain has fallen flat.

The latest reports show that there are in round numbers 800,000 freight cars in services in this country, and 63,000 of these cars are on the Pennsylvania lines east and west of Pittsburg.

One of the small sheds in the yard of the Bass Works took fire Saturday evening. The fire department was called and extinguished the flames, but not until the building was nearly destroyed.

E. J. Richards is prominently mentioned as successor to Henry Monett as passenger agent of the New York Central. Mr. Richards was Mr. Monett's first assistant, and has been with the road for some years. He is very efficient and thoroughly posted as to the business of the department.

The Pittsburg blacksmith shops employed sixteen new men this morning, and the machine shop nine. The car shops have also employed a number of new men during the last few days, and work in these departments will be pushed with vigor during the balance of the year. The men securing employment are those who were laid off several months ago on account of the dull business, the foreman in every instance giving the old men the preference when they are increasing their forces.

They are Invited to an Approaching Millinery Opening.

Miss Emma Wichman, the milliner, at No. 164 Calhoun street, opposite the Cathedral, is arranging her fall and winter display of millinery for a grand opening next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, and invites the ladies to her parlors. The line of trimmed goods and goods in general will not be surpassed anywhere, and prices on the opening days will be extraordinarily low. 13-2t

An engineer on the Wabash railway, whose run is between Danville and Springfield, has a cat which he would not part with for love or money. It belonged to his wife, who is now dead, and for years past it has been his constant companion in the cab. Ordinarily it sits perched up in the cab window before its master, but occasionally it strolls out to the pilot, where it will ride for hours at a stretch, winking knowingly at the dogs which bark at the train as it thunders by the cross roads. Some times when the train is approaching a station the adventurous animal climbs to the top of the sand box and calmly roosts there, undeterred by the shriek of the whistle or the clank of the bell. The engine has had good luck ever since the animal became an occupant of the cab and the trainmen look upon it as a mascot.

All the keys of Windsor Castle were recently stolen, but even this does not interfere with the rapid sale of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup.

The railroads will have a busy day on Wednesday.

Work Was Better than Prayer.

The story the other day about the pious little boy who tried to walk on the water in the bath-tub recalls another of an equally pious little girl. She was 8 years old and lived in the country; she had started one day rather late for school with another little girl about her own age. On their way they caught a glimpse of a clock dial through an open door; it lacked five minutes of 9.

"O, dear!" exclaimed the pious little girl, "it's five minutes to 9, and we'll be late to school."

"I'm afraid we will."

"Jennie," said the pious little girl, impressively, "I'll tell you what we must do; we'll kneel right down here and pray that we won't be late."

"H'm!" said the other, "I guess that we'd better skin right along and pray as we go!"

They "skun," and got there.—Boston Transcript.

JUDGE THURMAN!

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 15.—Following is Judge Thurman's letter of acceptance:

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 12, 1888.

"Hon. Patrick A. Collins, and others, committee:

"GENTLEMEN:—In obedience to custom, I send you this formal acceptance of my nomination for the office of vice president of the United States, made by the national convention of the democratic party at St. Louis. When you did me the honor to call upon me at Columbus and officially notify me of my nomination, I expressed to you my sense of obligation to the convention, and stated that, although I had not sought the nomination, I did not feel at liberty, under the circumstances, to decline it. I thought then, as I think now, that I ought to do whatever I could properly do to promote the re-election of President Cleveland. His administration has been marked by such integrity, good sense, manly courage, and exalted patriotism that a just appreciation of these high qualities seems to call for his re-election. I am also strongly impressed with the belief that his re-election would powerfully tend to strengthen that feeling of fraternity among the American people that is so essential to their welfare, peace and happiness, and to the perpetuity of the union and of our free institutions.

"I approve the platform of the St. Louis convention, and I can not too strongly express my dissent from the heretical teachings of the monopolists, that the welfare of a people can be promoted by a system of exorbitant taxation far in excess of the wants of the government. The idea that a people can be enriched by heavy and unnecessary taxation; that a man's condition can be improved by taxing him on all he wears, or his wife and children wear, on all his tools and implements of industry, is an obvious absurdity. To fill the vaults of the treasury with an idle surplus for which the government has no legitimate use, and to thereby deprive the people of currency needed for their business and daily wants, and to create a powerful and dangerous stimulus to extravagance and corruption in the expenditures of the government, seems to me to be a policy at variance with every sound principle of government and political economy. The necessity of reducing taxation to prevent such an accumulation of surplus revenue and the consequent depletion of the circulating medium is so apparent that no party dares to deny it; but when we come to consider the modes by which the reduction may be made, we find a wide antagonism between our party and the monopolistic leaders of our political opponents. We seek to reduce taxes upon the necessities of life; our opponents seek to increase them. We say, give to the masses of the people cheap and good clothing, cheap blankets, cheap tools and cheap lumber. The republicans, by their platform and their leaders in the senate, by their proposed bill, say, increase the taxes on clothing and blankets, and thereby increase the cost; maintain a high duty on the tools of the farmers and mechanic, and upon the lumber which they use for the construction of their modest dwellings, shops and barns, and thereby prevent their obtaining these necessities at a reasonable price. Can any sensible man doubt as to where he should stand on this controversy? Can any well informed man be deceived by the false pretense that a system so unreasonable and unjust is for the benefit of laboring men? Much is said about competition of American laborers with the pauper labor of Europe, but does not every man who looks around him see and know that an immense majority of laborers in America are not engaged in what are called protected industries? And as to those who are employed in such industries, is it not undeniable that the duties proposed by the democratic measure known as the Mills bill far exceed the difference between American and European wages, and that therefore, if it were admitted that our workingmen can be protected by tariffs against cheaper labor, they would be fully protected and more than protected by that bill? Does not every well informed man know the increase in price of home manufactures produced by a high tariff does not go into the pockets of laboring men, but only tends to swell the profits of others? It seems to me that if the policy of the democratic party is plainly presented, all must understand that we seek to make the cost of living less and at the same time increase the share of the laboring man in the benefits of national prosperity and growth.

"I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

"ALLEN G. THURMAN."

HELD GOOD.

Judge Byron K. Elliott, of the supreme court, has filed this decision, affirming the judgment of the superior court, in the case of the New York, Chicago and St. Louis railway vs. Grand Rapids and Indiana railroad company:

"The appellant, desiring to cross the appellee's road, agreed to put signals at the crossings and to maintain a watchman to operate the same. Afterwards a code of signals was agreed upon and each party agreed to obey them. While appellee's train was crossing in obedience to a signal giving it the exclusive right to the crossing one of the appellant's trains ran into it, doing damage to appellee's property. Held: (1) That the appellant is liable for the damages resulting from its violation of the contract. (2) Although the appellee's employe's might have seen the appellant's train, they were not guilty of negligence in failing to anticipate a disobedience of the signals. (3) It was competent to prove the difference in value between the cars as they were often repaired and as they were before injury. (4) A competent expert may give an opinion as to the distance at which it is safe to stop before going upon a crossing. (5) It was not error to permit the appellee to show that appellant's engineer had been drinking intoxicating liquors."

COL. J. A. GOULDEN.

The Views of a Prominent Democratic Speaker and Pennsylvania Soldier.

Col. J. A. Goulden, of Pittsburg, a prominent member of the democratic state central committee of Pennsylvania, who has been stumping in Indiana for two weeks, registered at the Wayne, Saturday night, and was in the city over Sunday, the guest of his friend Mr. Clark Fairbank.

A representative of THE SENTINEL called upon the gentleman to obtain his views on the political situation.

In reply to queries, Colonel Goulden spoke freely, saying: "I am not a regular campaign speaker, but having business calling me here, I have permitted my democratic friends to draft me into service, believing it to be the solemn duty of every good patriotic citizen to take an active part in public matters, as the political parties are the source from which flows the life current of the government in all its varied branches. Corrupt and indifferent political parties must of necessity make dishonest negligent public officials, to the lasting injury of the people. With this feeling strong within me, I allowed my friends to draft me into service, upon my arrival in Indiana.

I have been to Richmond, Indianapolis, Crawfordsville, Frankfort, Kokomo, Tipton, Peru, Wabash and Logro.

Everywhere I find the democrats thoroughly united, magnificently organized, all meetings largely attended and the people wild with enthusiasm.

If the democrats persevere faithfully until the last vote is polled on the 6th of November, Indiana will cast her fifteen electoral votes for Cleveland and Thurman by a majority of 10,000.

Yes, I came here direct from New York and if the signs of the times, the great enthusiasm of the people, the large and interesting meetings, the grand and efficient organization, the able and skillful management, the zeal and devotion of the workers mean anything, they mean that New York, Connecticut, New Jersey and Indiana will cast their electoral votes for Cleveland and Thurman by good round majorities on the 6th day of November.

The great business interests of the country are satisfied with President Cleveland's clean, conservative and patriotic administration of affairs.

The laboring people and the farmers are getting their eyes opened to the iniquity of the high war tariff that has been robbing them for a quarter of a century, and their votes will surprise even the most sanguine democrat.

With three months more time to educate the people Pennsylvania would give Cleveland and Thurman her twenty-eight electoral votes. Even as it is our republican friends are forced to make a vigorous fight to carry that state by a greatly reduced majority.

Our people, the masses, are getting it into their heads that the tariff only protects the few at the expense of the many and are rapidly growing ripe for revolt against the republican party, who have always legislated for the wealthy (the classed) and against the people.

The prohibition vote in Indiana will cut quite a figure this campaign. Their leaders claim from fifteen to twenty thousand votes. It is safe to put it at 10,000 which is more than double that of 1888.

They are making gains all over the state, and as they expect to be the national party opposing the democracy in 1892, breaking up the solid south, to a certainty if they succeed in burying the republican party next month, they are aggressive and hopeful.

The sectional feeling exhibited by the republicans, makes the south solid again for Cleveland.

Victory is within the grasp of the democracy, but every democrat must constantly bear in mind that eternal vigilance is the price of success, and each one must keep his shoulder to the wheel earnestly and zealously from now until the full democratic vote is polled and counted.

The Weather.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—Indiana.—Local rains, warmer.

IT IS SETTLED!

The Chicago Street Car Strike Adjusted, But a Bloody Riot Occurs This Morning.

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—The great street car strike strike, after a duration of nine days, was ended completely last evening on a basis honorable to both sides.

The question of wages was compromised.

An advance was secured, but the scale is materially lower than what had been insisted upon by the strikers up to the very last. They get only about one-third of the increase asked for. On the other hand all the reforms demanded by the men in the system of working are conceded and all the strikers are to be re-employed. The men hired by the company since the strike began will also be retained.

A rather serious conflict occurred this morning about three blocks from the Garfield avenue barns between a mob of strikers and the new men who are running the cars. The first car was run out and proceeded on its way without any event. The next six cars were then run out and had proceeded to Centre street, when a mob rushed from an alley near by and made a savage assault upon the new drivers and conductors.

Stones and missiles were hurled through the air and several of the mob pounded the new men and endeavored to drag them off the car. A hand to hand struggle then ensued. Captain Schack, with twenty-five men, immediately started for the scene. The mob which had evidently vented its spite ran away when the police appeared. Several conductors and drivers were hurt seriously. The trouble arose through the fact that the new men who were retained were concentrated at the Garfield field avenue barns and were the only men running cars from that point.

A SECRETARY SHORT.

He Skips Out With $3,000 of the Company's Money.

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—C. C. Nardid, secretary of the Citizens' Building and Loan association, disappeared last Wednesday and his whereabouts are unknown. The members of the society say between $2,000 and $3,000 are missing. His bonds fully cover the deficiency.

Can't Cross the Border.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. Oct. 15.—The four Chinamen continue to be the wards of the Grand Trunk railway, sleeping on the floor in the general waiting room of the station. They have written and received several letters since their arrival here a week ago. The Grand Trunk authorities have done everything in their power to get them across the frontier to their destination, even communicating with the authorities at Washington. Each time reply has come that they cannot be allowed to enter the country.

Yellow Fever.

DECATUR, Ala., Oct. 15.—There was one death last night: Police Officer Wooldridge, and one new case: Mr. Fields, who keeps a livery stable.

THE MARKETS.

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—Close—Wheat, steady, at $1.09. Corn, firm, at 43½c. Oats, easy, at 24½c. Flaxseed, $1.45. Pork, steady, $15. Lard, steady, $9.00. October short ribs, $8.25.

VERY IMPORTANT DECISION.

Very Important Decision by Prominent State and University Chemists.

Among them Prof. Collier, chemist in chief of the United States department of agriculture, Washington, D. C.; Ordway, of Massachusetts, Barker, of Pennsylvania, Albrecht, of the United States mint, Louisiana, Everhart, of Texas, Hilgard, of California, Heys, of Canada, and others most prominently known in chemical literature, after subjecting brands of baking powders on the American market to a thorough chemical examination, have published their findings, and it is important for the people to know that the report of these hygenic authorities of the nation implicates almost every brand analyzed with some poison or adulteration, with the exception of Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder, which for its purity and healthfulness they recommend for family use.

REV. J. M. FULTON

Tenders His Resignation as Pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church Owing to Ill Health.

Yesterday morning Rev. J. M. Fulton, the pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, before beginning his sermon, which was one of the ablest efforts of that brilliant young divine, made an announcement from the pulpit which was received with regret by the entire congregation present.

The announcement made was the tendering of his resignation as pastor of the church. He stated that he had been led to this step by his continued ill health and the advice of his physicians, who deemed a change of climate necessary in his case.

Rev. Fulton began his duties as pastor of the church about eighteen months ago. He has endeared himself to his congregation and the people of this city by his pleasant social ways, and every member will join with THE SENTINEL in expressing regret at his resignation. He is a minister of force and power, a pleasing and eloquent orator, and one whose position will be hard to fill.

A congregational meeting of the members will be held Wednesday evening to take action upon his resignation. Concerning Mr. Fulton's future movements we are not advised, but the best wishes of all for his speedy restoration to health will accompany him and his estimable wife wherever they go. He has several calls to the pulpits of other cities and we trust his health will be such that he may soon enter the active ministerial work again.

ADDITIONAL LOCALS.

Judge Chapin is holding court to-day at Bluffton.

Col. C. A. Zollinger is expected in the city this evening.

"The Arabian Knights" is the attraction Saturday evening next.

The badges for the Democratic Railroad club arrived this morning.

The suit of Barney O'Connor vs. Chas. H. Nix, is on trial before Judge O'Rourke.

Numerous piscatorial artists tried their luck along the river banks yesterday with but poor success.

J. C. Inman, Richmond; H. B. Gimbell, Logansport; E. E. Haywood and D. W. Partins, Upper Sandusky, are at the Aveline.

United States Marshal Wilkinson today arrested Irving W. Ross for selling cigars without a license. He was taken to Indianapolis.

Dr. J. M. Dinnen, H. C. Graffe, W. H. Burgert, G. W. Wilson, R. W. T. DeWald and O. F. Evans are the city people on the Wayne register.

Mr. George Roth, brother of the late Fred Roth, the contractor, died Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock of typhoid fever. The funeral occured this afternoon.

Mrs. Lehman, the aged wife of Farmer Lehman, living ten miles from town, fell out of her wagon on Main street at noon and sustained severe injuries.

The Conried Opera company come from South Bend to Fort Wayne and go to Indianapolis, from there they jump to Milwaukee, Wis. The performance here will not begin till after the parade.

Yesterday was a very interesting day at the St. Paul M. E. church. The congregations at both morning and evening services were large. There were a number of baptisms and eight accessions to the church.

Mr. Emmett Powers came home from Louisville Saturday, and his stable of horses arrived safely to-day in charge of Mr. John Clark. Mr. Powers purchased three blooded mares in Kentucky, and has fine pedigrees of all of them.

Ditch Commissioner Edward Ely has filed separate suits against Dallert Branstrator, Henry C. Buckley, Killian Baker, Conrad Filker, Chas Gebhart and Wm. Palmer to foreclose ditch liens. Mr. T. E. Ellison is attorney for the cases.

Yesterday Special Officer Grant, of Decatur, came to the city in search of Amiel Mayville, wanted down there for forging a check for $28.50. Marshal Myers at once located the man and arrested him on East Main street. He was taken to Decatur to-day.

Judge Chapin sent the case of Rose Bouch, administrator of the estate of Edward Bouch vs. the Pennsylvania railroad company to DeKalb county for trial on a change of venue. The case of Mr. Wm. H. Burgett vs. the Pennsylvania company goes to Lagrange.

Adelison Bylee, L. L. Morton, D. R. Pock, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Curtis, Washington; C. W. Quackenbush, Covington; Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Gottshall, Warsaw; C. H. Aldrich, Chas. H. Nix, Chicago; G. W. Fulrion, Columbus, Ohio; J. A. Bruner, Wabash, are guests of the Wayne.

"Gon-o-le-ha," the white chief of the Warm Spring Indians, accompanied by Fort Wayne's favorite specialty comedians, Ed Logan and Johnny Smith, whose specialties have gained for them a world wide reputation, are in the city, on their way to fill large eastern dates. They go ahead of their diamonds to save expenses.

A GREAT EVENT.

The Barbecue and Demonstration at Shelbyville in Honor of Judge Thurman's Visit.

SHELBYVILLE, Ind., Oct. 15.—Ten cars with Cal Brice's private car carrying Judge Thurman and party left Cincinnati on the Big Four, at half past 8 o'clock, this morning, for the big demonstration and barbecue at Shelbyville.

The extra cars on the train were occupied by 200 members of the Duckworth club, 150 of the Thurman club, of Cincinnati, and fifty more from the Thurman club, of Columbus, beside a large number who did not go in delegations.

The first car of the train was literally covered with banners and bandanas, while the enthusiastic democrats were all provided with bandanas. At Greensburg several hundred people were waiting impatiently, calling for Judge Thurman, whose appearance at the rear platform was greeted with cheers.

James B. Townsend introduced the judge as the "next vice president" and Judge Thurman told the crowd, "if you democrats of Indiana do your duty and give us this state, that may turn out to be." The train started with the last word, and the crowd gave the judge a parting cheer.

Shelbyville stirred the air with a tremendous cheer, the crowd being away up in the thousands. The day is gloomy and drizzly. Judge Thurman was driven up town, escorted by the local and visiting clubs, to the home of Mr. John Beggs, where here viewed the parade.

The visiting clubs were from all this part of the state and formed a procession over a mile long. After the procession, the crowd called for a speech and Judge Thurman standing on Mr. Begg's front porch, said:

"Of course you don't expect a speech at this time, as I must husband my voice all I can to spread myself after awhile."

At the fair grounds the barbecue is being held and there the speeches take place during the afternoon.

The Judge Starts on His Indiana Tour.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 15—Judge Thurman left Columbus yesterday afternoon in the private car of Chairman Brice, of the national democratic committee, which was attached to the 2:15 express on the Columbus and Cincinnati road. Accompanying him were his son, Allen W. Thurman, Dr. Fred W. Schwartz, Hon. C. W. Baker, of this city, Charles Q. Davis, and four representatives of the press. There were no ladies in the party. Although it was generally understood that the judge would leave for his brief Indiana tour yesterday, the time of departure was kept secret in order to avoid any possible demonstration. This object was accomplished so far as Columbus was concerned, but the fact that he was on route was wired along the line, for at every station there were groups of people waiting to give Mr. Thurman a cheer as the train went by. At Washington Courthouse, where a brief stop was made, about five hundred people had assembled, and the cheers were interspersed with loud calls for a speech. At first the judge was unwilling to show himself, but the clamor was so persistent that finally he appeared upon the rear platform and said: "Gentlemen, if I were a preacher I would preach you a sermon. As I am not one, I cannot speak to you on a Sunday."

At Madisonville there was another large crowd, but it had to content itself with a glimpse of the judge through the car windows. Cincinnati was reached at 6 o'clock. About 500 people had gathered in the depot and 1,000 more outside. The judge was met by a committee representing the various clubs, under whose escort he was taken to the Grand hotel, the crowd following, cheering heartily. This morning, escorted by a number of democratic clubs of this city and Columbus, Judge Thurman left for Shelbyville, Ind., to participate in the democratic barbecue and rally at that place.

To Assist Nature

In restoring diseased or wasted tissue is all that any medicine can do. In pulmonary affections, such as Colds, Bronchitis, and Consumption, the mucous membrane first becomes inflamed, then accumulations form in the air-cells of the lungs, followed by tubercles, and, finally, destruction of the tissue. It is plain, therefore, that, until the hacking cough is relieved, the bronchial tubes can have no opportunity to heal. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

the inflamed membrane, arrests the wasting process, and leaves no injurious results. This is why it is more highly esteemed than any other pulmonary specific.

L. D. Bixby, of Bartonsville, Vt., writes: "Four years ago I took a severe cold, which was followed by a terrible cough. I was very sick, and confined to my bed about four months. My physician finally said I was in consumption, and that he could not help me. One of my neighbors advised me to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. I did so, and before I had taken half a bottle was able to go out. By the time I had finished the bottle I was well, and have remained so ever since."

Alonzo P. Daggett, of Smyrna Mills, Me., writes: "Six years ago, I was a traveling salesman, and at that time was suffering with

Lung Trouble.

For months I was unable to rest nights. I could seldom lie down, had frequent choking spells, and was often compelled to seek the open air for relief. I was induced to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, which helped me. Its continued use has entirely cured me, and, I believe, saved my life."

PREPARE to receive the Old Roman.

THE weather can not prevail against us Wednesday.

THE meeting of the young German emperor and the pope Friday last was very cordial and it marks a new era in the vatican's realm.

EVANSVILLE will open books at once for the subscription of $100,000 stock for her tri-state fair to open next year. By the way, what about the Fort Wayne association?

TWENTY THOUSAND democrats joined in a parade in New York city Saturday. Secretary Fairchild and Speaker Carlisle spoke from the sub-treasury steps, the former devoting his time to the surplus in the treasury and the latter to the support of the Mills bills.

IN a divorce suit now pending at New York city we read of the groom's entertaining the bride on their wedding night with the story of his love for another girl, and on offer of $10,000 if she would grant an immediate divorce. Fiction has never yet dared to reach this height.

GOVERNOR HILL, of New York, some time ago, when the issue was raised as to whether the tariff, or something else, raises and maintains wages, applied, through the Bureau of Labor Statistics, to the manufacturers and the workmen of the state. Of 1,311 employes who answered the question, "To what do you attribute the increase of wages in the past five years?" 864, or over 60 per cent., said "to the organization of labor," while only six claimed that the tariff was the cause. Of 558 Labor Unions that answered 500 attributed the increase wholly to organization.

THE advance sheets of Sir Morell MacKenzie's defense of his treatment of the late Emperor Frederick, whom he terms the "noble," are published and can not fail to excite a bitter international controversy, for Sir Morell's defense is more virulent than anything uttered by the German critics against him. He reviews the late emperor's illness and courage, the historic consultations and adventures with Bismarck and closes by asserting that Professor Gerhardt caused the cancerous complication in the emperor's throat and that Professor Bergmann was immediately responsible for his death.

THE price of flour has gone up one dollar, two dollars, three dollars a barrel, since the recent wheat deal at Chicago and bread-stuffs are accordingly higher. A loaf of bread is worth from one and a half to two cents more than it was six weeks ago. That eats into the wages of the poor man and to add to his misfortunes the winter is coming on, and shortly we shall have the mercury down to zero. The three things the poor most need are slowly climbing out of reach. The coal combine will look after the matter of fuel, and the laborer can have the pleasure of freezing to death. The republicans will take charge of the woolen products and see that the price of warm clothes is kept at a ruinous figure. The wife and the little ones must shiver in calico, or wrap themselves in the republican assurance that trusts are private affairs. Down with monopolies.

Peculiar

In the combination, proportion, and preparation of its ingredients, Hood's Sarsaparilla accomplishes cures where other preparations entirely fail. Peculiar in its good at home, which is a "tower of strength abroad," peculiar in the phenomenal sales it has attained. Hood's sarsaparilla is the most successful medicine for purifying the blood, giving strength, and creating an appetite.

REFORM IN INDIANA.

[By telegraph to the New York Herald.]

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Oct. 13, 1888.—The "free trade" scare has about played itself out here. Mechanics and workingmen generally seemed to have weighed it in the balance and found it wanting in all respects.

"I do not think it worth passing consideration," said Mr. John H. Bass, as we sat talking over the situation. Mr. Bass is the largest manufacturer of car wheels in the world. His shops here and in St. Louis and Chicago certainly turn out more material for railroads, more boilers and machinery than any other single establishment west of Philadelphia.

"Yet," said Mr. Wm. Fleming, a man with large business interests here, and president of the First National bank, "if any man in Indiana ought to be affected by the free trade cry it is Mr. Bass. If, as the Harrison-Blaine organs say, the success of the Mills bill—or rather let us say now, the success of the democratic ticket—means a tremendous reduction in wages, then Mr. Bass, with his 2,500 men, ought to save a quarter of a million dollars in wages alone during the next couple of years. He is in the iron manufacturing business, and might be regarded as a beneficiary under the high tariff graciously accorded us by the Arthur commission. He is not a bit grateful, however. Indeed, he thinks now, as he thought then, that the whole scheme of 1883 was a disgraceful scramble on the part of partisan manufacturers to see who could most extensively and most surely rob the consumers at large—the American public."

"Yes," said Mr. Bass, "there was intense desire on the part of iron masters to secure a large lump of government guarantee, even in directions where it had been demonstrated that paternal assistance was unnecessary. I don't how the manufacture of casting or car wheels can be affected by a tariff. We usually sell the finished article at a certain percentage above the cost of the material and the labor in it, and whether the material is high or low I don't see think it affects materially that class of work."

"Is there much European or Canadian competition in your business?" I asked

"Not a great deal. Cast iron car wheels are not used much outside the United States. We send some to South America and a few go to Spain. European railroads, as a rule, are equipped with wrought iron and steel tired wheels. They would probably make cast iron wheels there if they had the excellent material which we have here and could produce them as cheaply. In all this, however, they are at a decided disadvantage. They haven't the material from which to create the article."

THE STEEL CLIQUE'S SWINDLE.

I discovered from his remarks on the subject of iron mining that Mr. Bass was interested in ore beds in Alabama, and his ideas agree with many others that we can afford to feel independent to a great extent in the matter of foreign ores.

"We can mine ore in Alabama," he said, "at a cost of seventy-five cents to $1 a ton put on the wagons at the time. The cost per ton at the furnace depends, of course, upon distance and facilities of transportation. To send it north and west costs from $4 to $5 a ton. To send it east it costs less than $4 at marketable points. This iron brings from $26 to $28 a ton, with the tariff price of $6.72 a ton added on. At the prices I name, the ton of iron is composed of two tons of our high grade pig."

"Under these circumstances would you favor a further reduction of duty than that named in the Mills bill?"

"Well," replied Mr. Bass, "while I think it is cut down pretty low, yet I don't believe if a further reduction were made it would stop any of our furnaces. I don't approve of its absolute removal. I have, however, always felt that an excessively high tariff produced a disturbance in business frequently that was decidedly injurious to manufacturers. The tariff on all things ought to be reduced to a point that would only just compensate for any differences existing in the cost of production."

"You mean also covering the differences in the cost of labor between our own and European makes?"

"Exactly. It is a fact, though not generally understood, that the iron we manufacture here is very much superior to iron shipped to us from Great Britain and brings more in open market. I name Great Britain especially because most of our foreign made iron comes from there."

WE ARE NO LONGER INFANTS.

"You evidently are not a believer in government bounty to 'infant industries?'" I suggested.

"Infant fiddlesticks," said Mr. Bass, sharply. "We have developed into healthy manhood in nearly all manufactures. It would be better for us all if this twaddle about 'infants' in business ceased. The tariff on steel rails has been for years very much higher than was necessary to our producers of steel. Look back at the condition of things in 1879-82. At that time there was a duty of $28 per ton. In the course of those years overproduction and keen competition carried rails down so low that they actually sold at the rate named in the tariff schedule—$28 a ton. Now, in the name of common sense, what is the use of protecting an article to an amount equal to its cost of production here? If our manufacturers had permitted foreigners to provide some of the demand of 1880, the subsequent over production could not have occurred, because then the large number of new plants would not have had an existence and the manufacturers would still have controlled this market after the first demand, owing to a revival of railroad building, had been met. In that period the tariff had been a most unhealthy stimulus. It promised and in some instances, gave enormous profits, but it also caused enormous losses, and resulted in the formation of cliques and combinations whose interests can never be those of the public at large."

"Why, then, wouldn't the abolition of duty on all raw materials be beneficial?"

"I think," Mr. Bass said after a pause, "the tariff ought so to be modified as to permit us to manufacture at the lowest possible cost, which would give us a foreign market, prevent the violent fluctuations that now disturb manufactures and increase the demand for articles, so that in turn there would be greater demand for labor. This is the great point to be considered. We want our home labor to have the maximum of benefit every time."

HIGHER WAGES FOR WORKMEN.

"The workingman would be benefited, then, in your opinion?"

"That's my view of it as a large employer of labor, and I am tolerably certain, too, that our workmen hold similar views. I may be mistaken, but I don't believe that here, in Fort Wayne, you will find ten per cent. of wage earners who are afraid to try the modifications of the tariff as proposed in the Mills bill, and this is a large manufacturing city. They understand as well as you and I that the tendency of an excessive tariff is simply to increase the profits of the manufacturer, who always gets his labor on a free trade basis. There is no use in attempting to deny this. No amount of talk can change this irrefutable fact. In my judgment, under a reduced tariff we should make more goods for foreign consumption, and this increased demand would necessitate more labor, and hence, labor would be better paid. The general tendency of a policy which cheapened raw materials and placed our people on an equal footing with foreigners would be to enlarge our markets instead of keeping a Chinese wall around us. And, as I said before, an increased demand for labor means an advance in wages. Ergo, tariff reduction, by the simplest process of reasoning, means money for our work people, and that again means general prosperity.

"I am glad to see the eastern press discussing this thing from a business stand point. It is an economic question and politics ought to be purely secondary. The country produces more than it can consume. Other countries would be glad of our surplus, as we should be glad of their surplus of wools and other material, but we cannot sell to them because we cannot buy from them in return. This is the present situation and it ought to and must be changed."

NATURE HAS NO BETTER REMEDY

Than this New Compound of Tar for

Wounds, Burns, Sores, Piles, Salt Rheum, Eczema, and

Coughs, Croup, Scrofula, Ulcers, Varicose Veins, Bronchitis, and Consumption.

TAR-OID must not be confounded with the cheap remedies which are prepared on the theory that like Diseases are caused by impure blood, which is not true. They have their cause in a want of vital action in the skin. TAR-OID restores this action, hence it cures every form of Skin Disease, also sores, burns, etc. It is soothing and wonderfully healing—gratifying results follow in every case. It is harmless and can be used with perfect safety by any one. It is superior to all other remedies. There is positively nothing else like it.

TAR-OID is a sure cure for piles. It never fails. We warrant a cure or refund the money. It gives immediate relief. It is perfectly safe, yet powerful in its action.

Imitation is proverbially the sincerest flattery. Undoubtedly in most cases such flattery is agreeable, but the owners of a popular proprietary article are pardonable if they resent such imitation. ## A SPECIFIC FOR DRUNKENNESS.

A Receipe Which Is Claimed to Cure the Passion for Alcoholics.

[Newark Advertiser.]

A specific against drunkenness has often been sought, but as yet there has been found no remedy except that of moral determination. Although the reform accomplished in this manner is encouraging, there is a wide field for the use of some physical method for the reclamation of besotted individuals who cannot be reached by moral suasion. Dr. Portugalow, a well-known physician and writer, declares that the desire for drink is a disease and must be treated by means of therapeutics. He claims that as quinine is a specific against fever, so are subcutaneous injections of strychnine the absolute means of curing the passion for intoxicating liquors. It appears that so far back as 1873 this method of treating was employed, but it attracted little attention. In 1884 the celebrated French physician, Dujardin-Boimetz, was a most zealous advocate of this method of treatment. The preparation and application of the injection is quite simple. One grain of strychnine is dissolved in 200 drops of water, and the patient receives an injection of five drops daily for a week or ten days. The effects of the injections are surprising; after two or three of them the drunkard has an appetite and is able to sleep. If, after the expiration of several months, the desire for strong drink returns, the result of indulgence is so distressing, palpitation of the heart, headache, and other equally disturbing effects, that it becomes impossible for the inebriate to touch another drop. It is recommended to make the injections during the drunken sleep, when the patient awakens in the full possession of his senses and will ask for a second or third application. It would be an admirable arrangement if the police surgeons would test this "cure" upon the intoxicated persons brought into the various stations. If this means of treating the deadly sin of intemperance be as successful as its advocates claim, the family physician will be a powerful factor in the regeneration of society. It has been suggested by the Russian press that stations be established in every department of Russia for the ... ration of the army of drunkards.

Proverbs That Need Correction.

There ought to be a useful future for the boy who set the Chicago River on fire. The country is full of proverbs as much in need of correction as the musty saw which affirms the impossibility of kindling a stream of water. To "work like a Turk," was in old times, before civilized people knew much about Turkey, the equivalent of doing double duty. Everybody knows nowadays that the Turks are a lazy, idle, and fleabitten race, so hostile even to the soap-and-water industry that if the prophet's beard were washed and combed they would actually refuse to swear by it! The "roast beef of old England" has long been proverbially rare, or, as the Englishmen say, "underdone" in American estimation. The fact is, however, that the roast beef of old England is "bloody" well done, and your visiting Briton positively turns up his rosy nose at the raw beef served him by zealous caterers in New York who want to remind him of "home." Let the Chicago iconoclast gird up his loins!—New York World.

A New Idea.

It is reported from England that perfectly pure air can be produced from the combustion of coal. "The arrangement for effecting this result is extremely simple. It consists of a brick chamber about five feet wide and two feet high built upon the ground. At one end is a feed chamber and a fuel chamber, and at the other a powerful exhaust and blast fan. Placed intermediately between the chamber and the fan are baffle plates, a standing bridge with perforations at the back and a hanging bridge with perforations at the front. There are also several carefully proportioned inlets to supply the exact quantity of air requisite for perfect combustion. This exact apportionment of air constitutes one of the main points of success, and it is the one most difficult to determine. Once known, however, this law of proportion between air and fire is, of course, easily maintained."

A Milwaukee Romance.

It was in a West Side parlor. All Sunday afternoon he had remained close by her side, and as the gloaming began to gloam, and the sun sank from sight over the glue factory in Wauwatosa, her mamma appeared upon the scene and asked that he remain to tea. Did he remain? Well some! Many slices of cold tongue slid down the interior of his gracefully curved neck, and ere many minutes he was filled with a sample of everything that the table afforded, and his hunger had disappeared, while the food of which he had partaken had stimulated and given him strength to again take up his position in the parlor for an all night sitting. It waxed darker and yet darker, while the flickering street lamps began to flick and ever and anon the tingle of a passing street car would make sweet music. As the evening wore on apace, the happy young things snuck by couples to the parlor, and again took up their position on the sofa, leaving the indulgent mamma to dream away her evening alone. In the far-off church tower a bell slowly tolls the hour of ten, but still they sit side by side, occasionally talking in low whispers, which sound like the sighing of an evening breeze through the closely woven branches of a hedge fence, but more often sitting in blissful silence and dreaming of the future. Little do they know, children as they are, what the near future has in store for them, and how could they? When we are happiest and the world seems brightest, misfortune is liable to be lurking in our vicinity, and only waiting for that happiness to reach the very pinnacle, even to stopping over, before making itself known in all its hideousness.

Again and again the bell slowly tolls. Hour after hour passes; yet they linger. On the street all is hushed. The good mother has long since retired to her room, done up her bang, put her false teeth to soak in a tumbler, said her prayers and gone to sleep. In the distance the uncertain step of a belated pedestrian echoes faintly upon the night air. A cricket 'neath the parlor window chirps a few short notes, and quiet again prevails. It is that hush that always comes just before the birth of a new day. Still they linger. Hush! My God, what was that?—W-h-r-r-r. rattle bang! He starts. Strong man, and firmly set as he is, he springs to his feet and glances about in a wild, uncertain kind of way.

"Wh-wh-what was that fearful racket, Gertrude?" he gasped, as he tried to find his way to the sofa in the dark, and sat down on the key-board of the piano.

"S—h, dearest, don't be alarmed. It was only the cook's alarm clock." But here another noise smote upon their ears. A door was heard to open on the next floor, and presently a still, small voice came echoing down like the wheeze of a sick horse. It was mamma minus her false teeth:

"Gertrude Bjones!"

"Y-e-s, mamma, dear."

"Well, fur lan' sakes, hain't you in bed yit?"

"Not yet, mamma."

"Well, you march! Yere it is four o'clock an' you not in bed yit. Why it's scandelous. There's the cook goin' down now to commence her Monday's washin', an' them clothes that you've got on hes got ter go inter the wash. You jest show that young man politely out, and git ter bed in a hurry." A door slammed and again all was quiet. Once more they squ in a passionate embrace, their lips met like the coupling of a brace of flat cars, a struggle ensued, she had one of her front teeth nearly pushed through her lip, and the next moment he was gone. Thus they were obliged to part. Two young hearts were rent in twain and they would not meet again for hours, perhaps for days, but such is life—on the West Side.—Peck's Sun.

Shaved by a Bullet.

Gen. Stuart, as usual, greatly exposed his own person on horseback, by riding out of the wood into the open field, and I felt it my duty to say to him that, in my opinion, he was not in his proper place, as in a few minutes the whole fire of the enemy would be concentrated upon him. But he was in a very bad humor, and answered curtly, that if this place seemed likely to become too hot for me, I was at liberty to leave it; whereupon I made response that since my duty attached me to his side, no place could be too hot for me were he close to go.

Nevertheless I changed my position, and cautiously brought a large tree, in front of which I had been standing, between myself and the enemy. In an instant the firing began, and three bullets struck the tree at just the height to show that, had I remained where I was, they would certainly have gone through my body. Looking at Stuart I saw him pass his hand quickly across his face, and even at that serious moment I could not help laughing heartily when I discovered that one of the numberless bullets that had been whistling around him had cut off half of his beloved mustache as neatly as it could have been done by the hand of an experienced barber.—Youth's Companion.

Curious Incident of War.

Some interesting information with reference to a very curious incident which occurred during the Franco-German war has just come to hand. In 1870 three French visitors established themselves at a hotel in a well-known German town, where they remained several months. Being then in want of funds and unable to pay their bill, they were compelled to leave a package which they had brought from France in the hands of the landlord in satisfaction of his claim. This upon examination was found to contain a sumptuously-designed state chair. The name Napoleon was embroidered upon the silk covering of the back and seat, and on the occupant pressing his hands upon the finely-carved gilt arms a musical air was played by an instrument concealed within the upholstery. The care of this remarkable piece of furniture seemed the only occupation of the strangers, who are supposed to have been awaiting the advance of the French army and, in the event of its proving victorious, would doubtless have conveyed the chair to Berlin, where, it is presumed, it was to have been used as a throne by the Emperor Napoleon. The chair remains in the possession of the Frenchmen's host.—Letter to London Times.

THE GREAT RALLY.

The Officers of the Day, Committees, Order of Formation, Line of March and Arrangements for Judge Thurman's Reception.

The elements are just a little bit depressing, but they cannot dampen the ardor of the democratic hosts, who propose to give Judge Allen G. Thurman a royal welcome next Wednesday, come rain or sunshine.

This morning Hon. R. C. Bell, Hon. F. P. Randall and Dr. Geo. W. Long proceeded to Shelbyville and will escort Judge Thurman to this city to-morrow afternoon, so that in the evening he will be present at the presentation of a handsome banner to the Hendricks legion from the Wayne hotel balcony.

If the weather opens bright Wednesday, and it will, no one can estimate the number of strangers who will pour into Fort Wayne, and people cannot make their arrangements too elaborate to entertain the thousands. Everybody should take pride in decorations, especially along the line of march.

There will be an afternoon and evening parade Wednesday, and the pageant will be reviewed by Judge Thurman, the friend of the people, and one of the grandest statesmen of his day.

Besides Judge Thurman, Governor Isaac P. Gray, Senator Daniel W. Voorhees, Senator David Turpie, Hon. Joseph E. McDonald, Hon. Samuel Carey, and other distinguished orators will address the multitude from various places, to be indicated later.

GIGANTIC BUSINESS.

The facts are not all at hand, but enough is known to credit the assertion that the Fort Wayne Jenney Electric Light company has entered a co-partnership or combination with the Thompson-Houston company, of Boston, and the stock of the Fort Wayne company soars where par can not touch it.

Mr. R. T. McDonald is at the head and front of the new deal, and has made a fortune out of it, besides still retaining the position of general manager.

Mr. J. H. Bass and Mr. H. G. Olds refused $100,000 each for their interest in the Fort Wayne company, so that the value of stock can be realized from these figures. In the new combination the Plymouth plant is lost, and THE SENTINEL has it from good authority that the Fort Wayne works will spread over ten acres of ground next summer.

Whether this movement is one to organize a gigantic electric light trust, the gossips do not say, but it looks that way.

Another feature of the Fort Wayne-Boston combine is that they have taken $50,000 of the bonds of the local or city electric light company, of which Mr. H. C. Graffe is president and improvements are being made in this property accordingly, witness the purchase of water power—the Rudisill mill property.

MR. J. C. BOWSER.

Death of an Old and Highly Esteemed Citizen.

Last night, at his home on East Berry street, occurred the death of Mr. J. C. Bowser, a pioneer citizen, after an illness of three weeks, from pneumonia.

Mr. Bowser was born in Fairfield county, Ohio, eighty-one years ago. He came to Fort Wayne in 1833, with his young wife, and engaged in a general business selling farm implements, wind mills, etc.

He next established with Mr. Storey the foundry and machine, shops now known as the Fort Wayne Iron works, on Superior street. The firm soon changed to J. C. Bowser & Co., and was one of the strongest in the west, Mr. Bowser's wealth at one time being estimated at $200,000.

Outside of this business Mr. Bowser was a railroad contractor, had contracts on the Pittsburg and Wabash roads and built a great portion of the Muncie line. On this work he was defrauded out of some $70,000, and reverses followed until he retired from active business.

Mr. Bowser was widely known and universally liked. He was always agreeable and goes to his reward with the highest praises of all who knew him.

His venerable wife and two daughters, Miss Sally Bowser and Mrs. Willis Pearse survive a kind husband and father. His three sons, Jefferson C., Mat M. and Lafayette M., are dead.

Mr. S. M. Foster's Address To-night.

This evening, at the Academy of of Music, Mr. Samuel M. Foster, one of the best tariff thinkers in the west, will address the citizens of Fort Wayne, at the invitation of the Democratic Rail road club.

Turn out and give Mr. Foster a royal reception.

LOCAL NEWS.

The Summit City Building and Loan association will meet to-night.

William, the eleven-year-old son of Mr. John Schmidt, of Glasgow avenue, died Saturday, of dropsy, and was buried yesterday.

The fifteen-months-old child of Mr. Charles Reutschler, of 11 Jones street, died to-day of flesh decay, and will be buried Wednesday at 2 p. m.

Mr. Edwin Morrey, ugen forty-two years, of 49 East Lewis street, died yesterday of consumption, and will be buried to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. The deceased was a machinist, and has been sick for seven years. He leaves a wife and three children.

Mrs. Stoll, wife of Henry Stoll, of the fire department, met with an accident while driving out on the Catholic cemetery road this morning. A farmer drove his wagon against her buggy, tearing a wheel off, and throwing the lady to the ground. Her injuries are severe.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"Hood's Sarsaparilla heals all others, and Hood for book containing additional evidence. Hood's Sarsaparilla tones up my system, purifies my blood, sharpens my appetite, and seems to make me over." J. T. THOMPSON, Register of Deeds, Lowell, Mass.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is characterized by three peculiarities; 1st, the combination of medical agents; 2d, the proportion; 3d, the process of securing the active medicinal qualities. The result is a medicine of unusual strength, effecting cures hitherto unknown. Send for book containing additional evidence.

ECHOES OF THE RAIL.

Monday Morning Comes Wet and Disagreeable With This Budget of News.

The Pittsburg road will run another excursion to Chicago to-morrow.

The Wabash shops turned out a new locomotive last Saturday. It is numbered 138.

Mr. J. H. Sullivan, engineer on the Pittsburg road, is doing honors over the arrival of a baby boy at his home.

William Eberhart, has returned from his wedding trip and resumed his position in the Bass Foundry moulding rooms.

The Democratic Railroad club will turn out this evening to hear the speech of Mr. S. M. Foster at the Academy of Music.

The "Fair Play" amusement company came in on the Pittsburg last evening from Alliance, O., and went to Grand Rapids.

The roadmasters in convention at Boston pronounced in favor of rails not less than seventy-two pounds in weight per yard.

Mr. Henry Loewensberger, car inspector on the Pittsburg road, is receiving congratulations over the arrival of a baby boy at his home.

The democratic boys in the shops are wondering how they will manage to get a "day off" Wednesday on account of the big Thurman rally.

Messrs. F. Neiman, H. Theike, M. Ensch and J. Carroll were among the new men employed this morning at the Pittsburg machine shops.

Messrs. H. Bennigan, L. Miller, M. Eltman, F. Armack and F. G. Olds took positions as machinists in the Pittsburg shops this morning.

Frank Manier, a carpenter at the Pittsburg car shops, mourns the loss of a ham and other articles which were stolen from his house last evening by burglars.

The lost pocket book found by our reporter Saturday was restored to its owner this morning, who called at the office and gave a description of the property.

The Lake Shore people decline to advance grain rates, until the Pennsylvania lines do so. The second attempt to advance east-bound rate on grain has fallen flat.

The latest reports show that there are in round numbers 800,000 freight cars in services in this country, and 63,000 of these cars are on the Pennsylvania lines east and west of Pittsburg.

One of the small sheds in the yard of the Bass Works took fire Saturday evening. The fire department was called and extinguished the flames, but not until the building was nearly destroyed.

E. J. Richards is prominently mentioned as successor to Henry Monett as passenger agent of the New York Central. Mr. Richards was Mr. Monett's first assistant, and has been with the road for some years. He is very efficient and thoroughly posted as to the business of the department.

The Pittsburg blacksmith shops employed sixteen new men this morning, and the machine shop nine. The car shops have also employed a number of new men during the last few days, and work in these departments will be pushed with vigor during the balance of the year. The men securing employment are those who were laid off several months ago on account of the dull business, the foreman in every instance giving the old men the preference when they are increasing their forces.

TO THE LADIES.

They are Invited to an Approaching Millinery Opening.

Miss Emma Wichman, the milliner, at No. 164 Calhoun street, opposite the Cathedral, is arranging her fall and winter display of millinery for a grand opening next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, and invites the ladies to her parlors. The line of trimmed goods and goods in general will not be surpassed anywhere, and prices on the opening days will be extraordinarily low. 13-2t

An engineer on the Wabash railway, whose run is between Danville and Springfield, has a cat which he would not part with for love or money. It belonged to his wife, who is now dead, and for years past it has been his constant companion in the cab. Ordinarily it sits perched up in the cab window before its master, but occasionally it strolls out to the pilot, where it will ride for hours at a stretch, winking knowingly at the dogs which bark at the train as it thunders by the cross roads. Some times when the train is approaching a station the adventurous animal climbs to the top of the sand box and calmly roosts there, undeterred by the shriek of the whistle or the clank of the bell. The engine has had good luck ever since the animal became an occupant of the cab and the trainmen look upon it as a mascot.

All the keys of Windsor Castle were recently stolen, but even this does not interfere with the rapid sale of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup.

The railroads will have a busy day on Wednesday.
